WHAT'S COOKIN'?

"WELL," said Bugs Leach, covering up a yawn, "might just as well start the meeting now as any old time."

"This club sure is detir . . . er . . . dretio . . . I mean this club is really going to pieces," said Janer Jameson. The weekly meeting of the "Courtlin Characters" was in session. The club consisted of 12 girls who were sophomores at Courtlin High School.

"Fryin' freshman!" said Marge Minion. "I've got a beaut of an idea!" The rest of the girls looked at each other with a knowing glance. Whenever Marge Minion got a certain look in her eye, and said she had a "beaut of an idea", the members of the "Courtlin Characters" knew they were in for a hazardous time. For example, there was the time Marge had insisted that the girls learn how to ski. The second time the group went skiing she persuaded them to try the famous Skyway Ski Jump. This particular jump was noted for its height and tricky turns. That night the doctor bill of 12 Courtlin families soared to new heights—just as their daughters had soared to new depths. Every time they had allowed themselves to be persuaded by "Murder" Minion, they took an oath that this was the last, the very last, time she'd talk them into anything. But it was hard to resist "Murder". She was a good talker.

"Now just a minute, Marge," said Janer. "See this black and blue mark, with little purple spots for extra added attraction," Janer shoved her wrist in Marge's face. "Last time you had an idea, I got this as a souvenir." All the other girls started shoving their bruised limbs in Marge's face. It was obvious that they had no intention of letting Marge rope them in again.

"Mur-der," said Marge, throwing up her hands in defense. "Will you gruesome goons give me a chance to talk! That's the least you can do . . . Even a condemned man gets that right—and anyway, we're supposed to run this club on a democratic basis."

The girls looked at each other hopelessly. Marge was right.

"Okay, Marge, talk! I for one disagree with whatever you're gonna suggest—before I hear it." Prudy Pruden folded her arms and tossed her head. Most of the other "Courtlin Characters" decided to wait until Marge had spoken.

"It's just like Janer said before. This club is going nowhere so fast—the speed is breathtaking. We haven't done anything interesting in . . ."

"Marge!" said Janer menacingly. "Must I show you my very interesting and exciting bruises again!"

"Listen, you icky infant, are you gonna hear me out, or do I hafta sit on you to make you listen!" said Marge with a very determined air.

"Okay, you jivey juvenile, but this better sound half way human!"

"To continue from where I was so rudely interrupted," said Marge, looking down her nose at Janer, "we need a real groovey idea."

"And, you, I say shudderingly, have that idea?" asked Jan Lowry.

"How can you tell—does it show?" asked Marge witheringly. It was apparent that she had taken all the kidding she was going to take for that day. From then on she talked without interruption.

"We ought to do something constructive this time," said Marge. "I think we should learn how to cook and try to sell the stuff. With the money we get for it, we could buy books for the Children's Home—or any worthwhile cause we all agree upon. It's about time we learned how to bake—and we haven't done anything for the Children's Home in ages."

For a few minutes there was absolute silence in the club room. The look of pure astonishment and amazement which registered on 11 faces simultaneously would have won first prize at any photographic contest.

Marge took advantage of the silence to continue with her talk. "I'm sure our mothers would be happy to contribute materials to this cause. I've no doubt Mrs. Lowry would love to have us use her kitchen." Jan Lowry sat up as if she had just come out of a trance.

"Whoa! Step on the brakes, Marge!" exclaimed Jan. "Mother will contribute something, I'm sure, but I don't know whether she'll want to contribute her kitchen."

"Yippee! I knew you'd like my idea. Now don't worry about your mother, Jan. I'll talk to her."

"Bending bannisters!" shouted Janer. "She's done it agin!" She threw up her hands despairingly. "No good'll come of this—though it doesn't sound too crazy," admitted Janer.

"It's the grooviest idea any one of us has ever had. Marge should be head of this activity," said Bugs.

"Oh, No!" groaned Janer.

"Okay, chicks, let's get this show on the road!" said Marge briskly. "We all meet tomorrow at Jan's house. I'll go home with you now, Jan and tell . . . I mean, ask your mother whether or not we can use her kitchen."

Not one of the 12 "Courtlin Characters" was late in arriving at Mrs. Lowry's spotless white

ADVICE TO COMIC READERS FOR

BAD SKIN

Stop Worrying Now About Pimples, Blackheads And Other Externally Caused Skin Troubles

JUST FOLLOW SKIN DOCTOR'S SIMPLE DIRECTIONS

Have you ever stopped to realize that the leading screen stars whom you admire, as well as the beautiful models who have lovely, soft white skin, were all born just like you with a lovely smooth skin?

The truth is that many girls and women do not give their skin a chance to show off the natural beauty that lies hidden underneath those externally caused pimples, blackheads and irritations. For almost anyone can have the natural, normal complexion which is in itself beauty. All you have to do is follow a few amazingly simple rules.

Many women shut themselves out of the thrills of life — dates, romance, popularity, social and business success — only because sheer neglect has robbed them of the good looks, poise and feminine self-assurance which could so easily be theirs. Yes, everybody looks at your face. The beautiful complexion, which is yours for the asking, is like a permanent card of admission to all the good things of life that every woman craves. And it really can be yours—take my word for it! — no matter how discouraged you may be this very minute about those externally caused skin miseries.

Medical science gives us the truth about a lovely skin. There are small specks of dust and dirt in the air all the time. When these get into the open pores in your skin, they can in time cause the pores to become larger and more susceptible to dirt particles, dust and infection. These open pores begin to form blackheads which become infected and bring you the humiliation of pimples, blackheads or other blemishes. When you neglect your skin by not giving it the necessary care, you leave yourself wide open to externally caused skin miseries. Yet proper attention with the double Viderm treatment may mean the difference between enjoying the confidence a fine skin gives you or the embarrassment of an ugly, *un*beautiful skin that makes you want to hide your face.

The double Viderm treatment is a formula prescribed by a skin doctor with amazing success, and costs you only a few cents daily. This treatment consists of two jars. One contains Viderm Skin Cleanser, a jelly-like formula which penetrates and acts as an antiseptic upon your pores. After you use this special Viderm Skin Cleanser, you simply apply the Viderm Fortified Medicated Skin Cream. You rub this in, leaving an almost invisible protective covering for the surface of your skin.

This double treatment has worked wonders for so many cases of external skin troubles that it may help you, too — in fact, your money will be refunded if it doesn't. Use it for only ten days. You have everything to gain and nothing to lose. It is a guaranteed treatment. Enjoy it. Your dream of a clear, smooth complexion may come true in ten days or less.

Use your double Viderm treatment every day until your skin is smoother and clearer. Then use it only once a week to remove stale make-up and dirt specks that infect your pores, as well as to aid in healing external irritations. Remember that when you help prevent blackheads, you also help to prevent externally caused skin miseries and pimples.

Incidentally, while your two jars and the doctor's directions are on their way to you, be sure to wash your face as often as necessary. First use warm water, then cleanse with water as cold as you can stand it, in order to freshen, stimulate and help close your pores. After you receive everything, read your directions carefully. Then go right to it and let these two fine formulas help your dreams of a beautiful skin come true.

Just mail your name and address to Betty Memphis, care of the New York Skin Laboratory, 206 Division Street, Dept. 336 New York 2, N. Y. By return mail you will receive the doctor's directions, and both jars, packed in a safety-sealed carton. On delivery, pay two dollars plus postage. If you wish, you can save the postage fee by mailing the two dollars with your letter. If you are in any way dissatisfied, your money will be cheerfully refunded. To give you an idea of how fully tested and proven the Viderm double treatment is, it may interest you to know that, up to this month, over two hundred and twelve thousand women have ordered it on my recommendation. If you could only see the thousands of happy, grateful letters that have come to me as a result, you would know the joy this simple treatment can bring. And, think of it!— the treatment must work for you, or it doesn't cost you a cent.

kitchen the next day. Mrs. Lowry at that moment, was seated in a movie theatre seeing a double feature which she had seen before.

"First we'll make flapjacks. That'll be good for an after skating party or a school social," said Marge.

"Do you mean to stand there and tell us that we're gonna practice and waste all this food?" demanded Shirley Leffing.

"Not waste, you fugitive from a funnel," said Marge wearily. "We'll eat some and divide the rest up between our families."

"Well anyway," grumbled Shirley, "let's be careful of how much we put in."

"Flapjacks are almost like plain, ordinary pancakes," said Janer.

"We don't have any special pancake flour," said Bugs.

"Honestly now, characters, can you think of anything that 'different' they'd put in pancake flour?" asked Marge. And before anyone could protest, Marge started measuring out flour.

"Marge, are you sure they measure flour with a soup ladle?" queried Jan.

"Now don't you tax your brain cells, Jan. After all, we want these to be firm—and that's what flour is for—firmness!" Marge continued heaving flour into the mixing bowl.

By this time everyone and everything within a three foot radius was covered with a thin coating of flour. It gave the complexions of the "Courtlin Characters" a peculiar ghost-like pallor.

"Phew!" exclaimed Marge, blowing flour dust away from her eyes. "Let's add water now!"

She very carefully measured out three tablespoons of water.

"Hey, Marge!" shouted Janer. "Aren't you straying from the beaten path? Firmness is okay, but these'll have nothing on the Rock of Gibraltar."

"Quick! Before it hardens! Light the STOVE," screamed Marge.

"O-okay, Marge, it's lit," said Jan.

"Get me a flapper or whatever you call the thing that turns the things over!" shouted Marge.

"Here's the pancake flipper," said Jan as she handed it to Marge.

Marge flipped the strange, white, pasty looking mixture with a vengeance. "There! That does it!" she muttered.

"It certainly does," said Janer, pointing to Mrs. Lowry's immaculate white ceiling. Immaculate, that is, except for a doughy blob which stuck to it as if for dear life.

"We'll fix that later," said Marge with a preoccupied air. "Let's get the rest of these flipped!"

By the time Marge got half way through the batter, two out of three of all the pancakes she flipped were sticking firmly to the ceiling. The rest of the batter had become a solid, hard mass.

"Jumping jelly beans!" said Bugs Leach. "What'd you put in that batty batter that gives it such bounce?"

Jan came thumping up the cellar stairs carrying a step ladder. "Hop to it, characters! Start scrapin'!" she said resignedly.

The flapjacks adhered so firmly to the ceiling—that bits of plaster came off with them when they were scraped off. The batter was hammered loose.

"Characters, I know when I'm licked," admitted Marge. "I'll never suggest another thing to this club. Never! Never!"

The phone rang just then. Jan ran to answer it. A few minutes later they heard a scream. Jan staggered into the room.

"Characters, we've just been appointed to make all the refreshments for all school functions. The whole town's talking about how we go in for baking in a big way!"

Everyone looked at Marge and said, "MURDER!"

STAMP NEWS

By KENT B. STILES

When political independence is achieved by a people, postal paper invariably is issued which reflects such transition. So it is now with Burma, which was a British possession in Asia and which was part of India prior to April of 1937.

Burma's attainment of freedom from Great Britain on Jan. 6, 1948, is accompanied by a definitive series of postal stamps which reflect the circumstances that Burma is now a sovereign nation in its own right.

The Burmese postal administration has selected as the central design of Burma's new stamps a portrait of a man who sacrificed his life in behalf of the people he led – U Aung San, an Army General who was Burma's Premier.

After Britain promised Burma independence, following the defeat of the Japanese who had invaded Burma during World War Two, the Burmese set up what was known as an "Interim Government" to prepare for the day (this Jan. 6) of freedom. U Aung San was chairman of the Executive Council which exercised political control during the interim period, and his title was Prime Minister.

On July 19, 1947, gunmen representing U Aung San's enemies forced their way into the legislative chamber while the executive body was in session at Rangoon, Burma's capital city. The gunmen sprayed the room with bullets, and U Aung San and five other interim leaders were assassinated. So it was logical that the Burmese should, with reverence, place U Aung San's likeness on the first definitive stamps.
